

The Strategic Plan for Development of Republic of Kazakhstan for 2010

ABSTRACT

October 10 1997 the President of Republic of Kazakhstan message "Kazakhstan-2030- Prosperity, safety and improvement of living standards for Kazakhstan people" was announced for the people of Republic. For implementation of this long-term strategy, by the decree of President from 28 January 1998 the Strategic Plan for Development of Republic of Kazakhstan for 1998-2000 was approved. This 3-year plan was successfully implemented.

Kazakhstan came to the new level of its development and found its own place in the modern world. The main measures for the transition of state to the new market oriented way were implemented. Today Kazakhstan is more competitive and advanced as independent economic state, rather then 9 year ago at the moment of getting of independence.

However the searching process of its own model of development for Kazakhstan is still active and may be continued, as the world is changing rapidly and becoming more complicated. The important tool for such search is strategic planning of development of the country, the Kazakhstan used first time in early 1997.

The strategic planning in order to increase its competitive is used by developed countries and large transnational companies. Using their experience of surviving in the modern world, Kazakhstan should increase the importance of role of state and strategic planning of its development.

This document is a Strategic Plan for development of Republic of Kazakhstan for 2010 and it's a basis for development of branch strategic plans for ministers and state bodies, national companies, oblasts and Astana and Almaty cities.