History

The higher education of customs in China has a history of more than one hundred years. It can be traced back to the Taxation School established by the Qing Dynasty government in Beijing in 1908 (which was renamed as Taxation Academy and relocated to Shanghai). This school was one of the first schools that provided professional higher education of customs.

Comments and suggestions from the trainees

“The training was well organized. The expected objectives were reached. The interpreters were good too. It would be better if they can give us some Chinese lessons. Personally, I am very interested in the IT-based management and anti-smuggling measures of the Chinese customs. I hope I can learn more about it. The training was really good. It strengthened the link between our customs and the Chinese customs. The field visits were well organized too. We had good exchanges and interactions with the instructors, which enabled us to have a further understanding of the objectives of Sino-African cooperation. The course on customs IT application was interesting. We enjoyed E-learning. We benefited a lot from the course of IPR...”

Quotation from the head of Uzbekistan delegation, “Thank you for the rich training content, excellent services and the friendliness of the customs experts.

❖ “I love visiting the historical spots in China, like the Forbidden City, Huangpu River and Oriental Pearl. But I feel the best activity was the visit to the river port customs and airport customs, which illustrated to us the innovative results of supervision and monitoring. I hope that our country’s customs will be as good as China’s...”

❖ “In my opinion, you have already become the best.”

Experience

The image features a central graphic of two rows of stylized human figures. The top row consists of five white figures, and the bottom row consists of five dark blue figures. They are all holding hands, forming a circular shape. In the center of this circle is a bright, glowing white light. From this light, several rays of light extend outwards, creating a starburst effect against a dark blue background. The rays are lighter blue and white, creating a sense of depth and illumination.

Thank you
